

WeAreNotSisi. Fresh and clean Art from Austria in the Netherlands. And back.
September 17 – October 4, 2014 in the Vondelbunker in Amsterdam

The Vondelbunker, one of the last remaining Underground venues in Amsterdam, will become the location for contemporary Austrian art this autumn: in cooperation with the Dutch art collective Schijnheilig, the Austrian non-profit association hausbank will showcase the works of 25 artists from Austria for the duration of three weeks.

Based on the question who we – the Austrian people – are, the project combines positions ranging from architecture to fine arts, performance and film. The exhibits will not be presented in a static display, but rather be shown in a dynamic way: Schijnheilig and hausbank will create a setting that intends to break the boundaries between single scenes and their protagonists. The items on display range from a bicycle-powered popcorn machine to avant-garde film, abstract paintings and a cast chicken floor. The works will be in constant movement – leaving their initial space, disappearing completely from time to time or only being visible for a moment, thus creating a constant flow of new combinations and friction. The whole process will be documented and published daily on the website.

The results of this collaboration between Austrian artists in the Netherlands will be shown in Vienna in the fall of 2015.
